Effective e-Learning

Learners Need to be Motivated

“It takes energy to learn – one’s own energy”

1. Build on anticipated outcomes.
2. Put the learner at risk.
3. Have learner attempt real or authentic tasks – leading to more interest.
4. Relevant and behavior-changing learning experiences, providing learners with concrete strategies to apply in the field.

Effective e-Learning

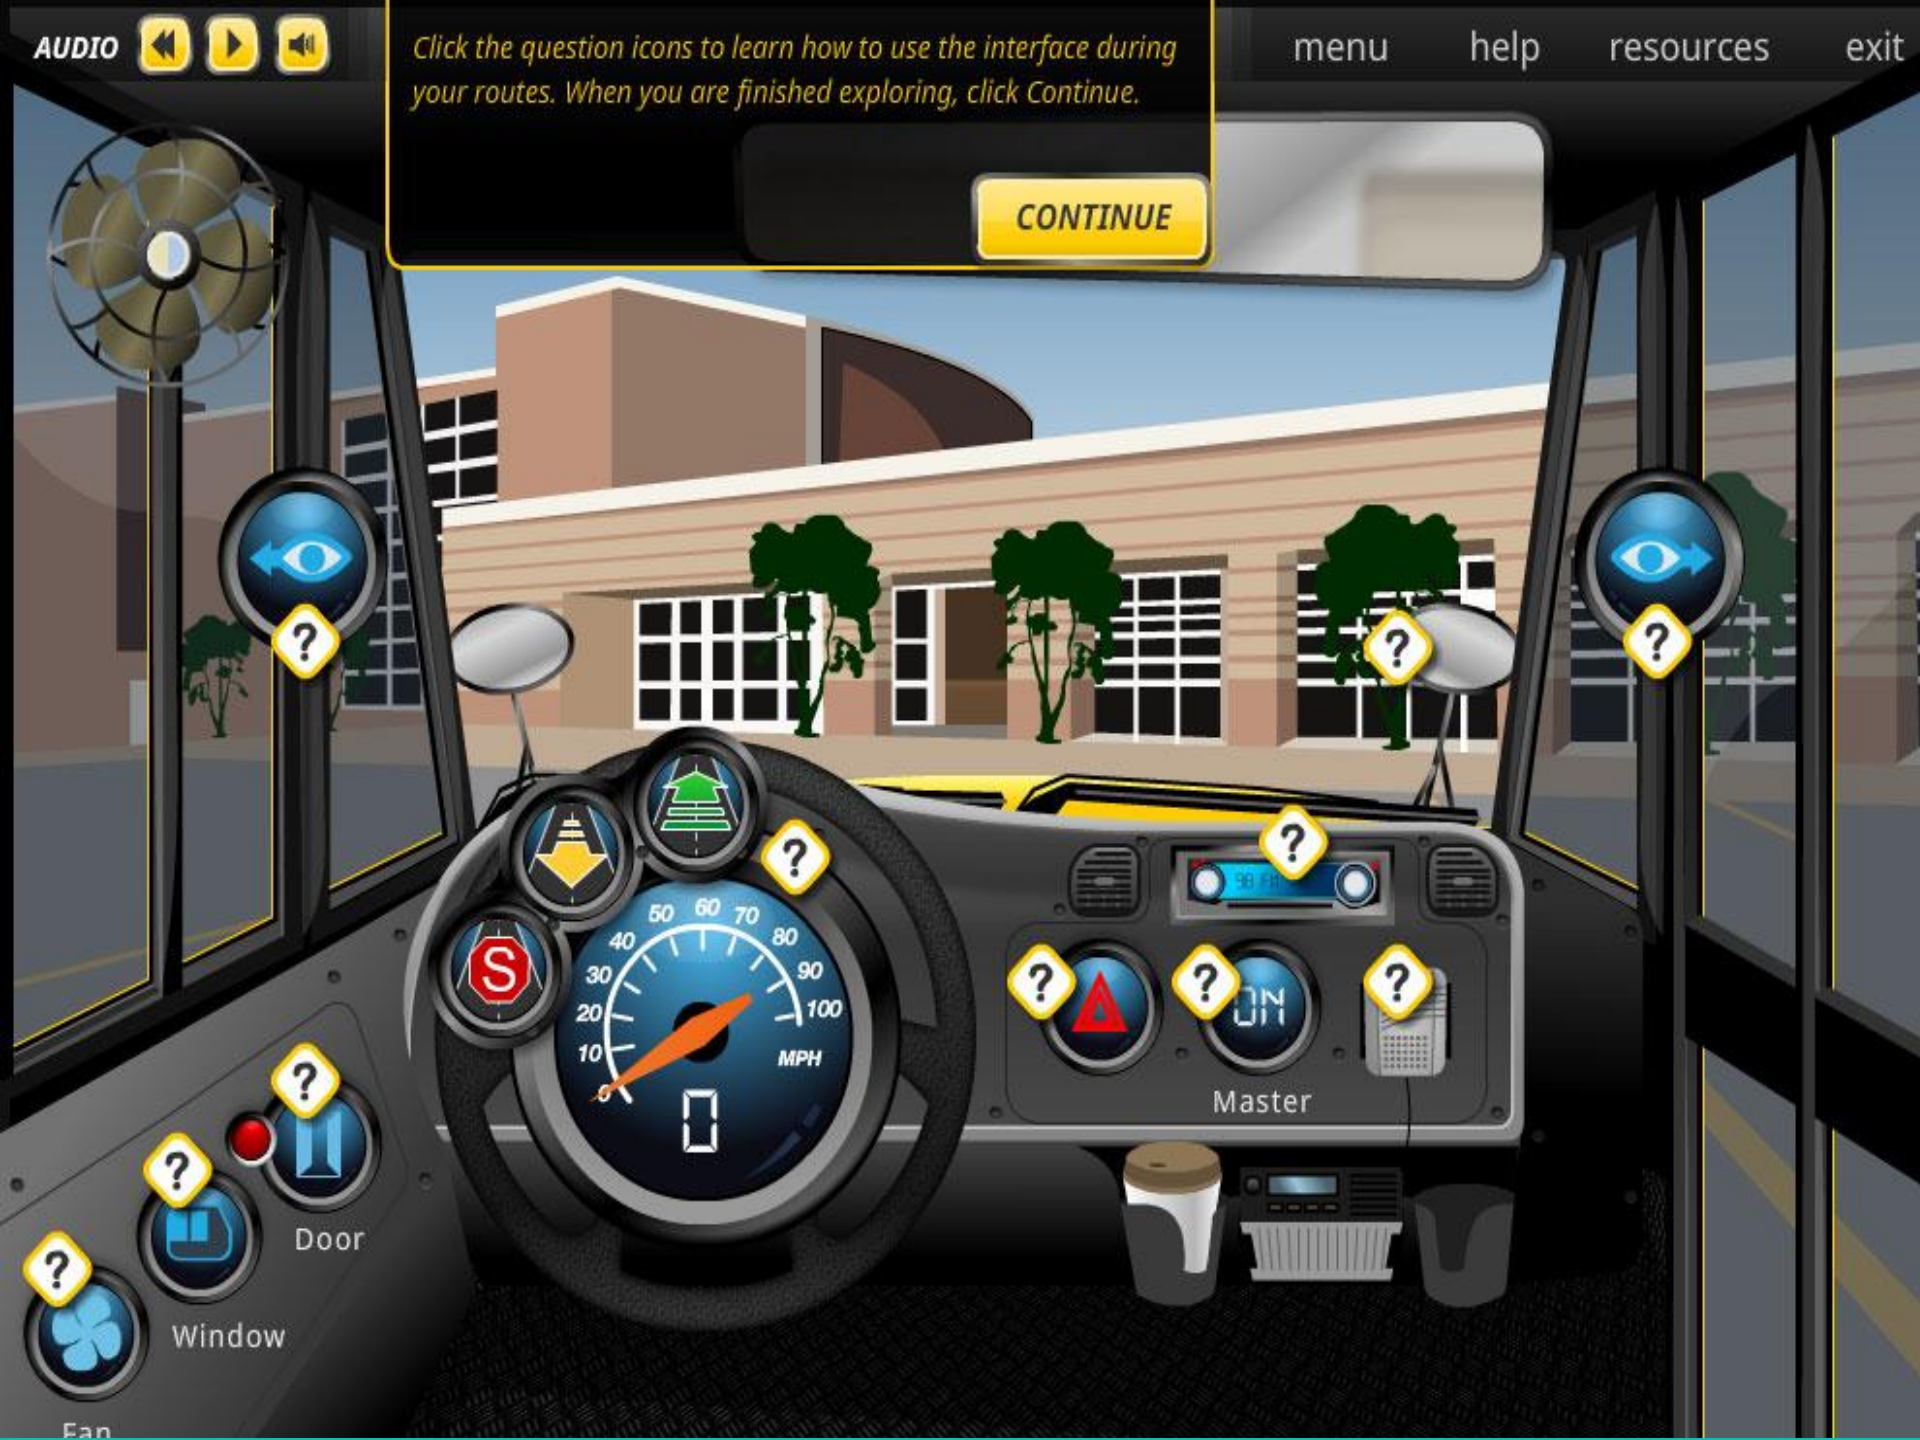

5. Skills can be learned without guidance.
6. Each step can be prompted and guided as it is performed.
7. Use your target audience as your Subject Matter Experts when designing.

“Success is getting people to do the right thing at the right time!”
